Athena's Arena (Justaino) - Last updated: 28 September 2026

This is a short, plain-English note about what the app stores, who can see it, and how to remove it. It is a small personal project shared with friends, not a commercial service.

1

What's Stored

Your email address: Used only to sign in, and so a friend who already knows it can send you a friend request. It is never shown to anyone.

Your workout data: Your profiles, exercises, workout history, and any notes you add to an exercise during a workout.

Your friends details: Your display name ("Your name to friends"), your @username, your friend list and requests, close-friend settings, and nudges.

That's it. No tracking, no ads, no analytics, and nothing is sold or shared outside the app.

2

Where It's Stored

- In the cloud with Supabase (supabase.com), a third-party hosting service, so your data syncs across your devices.
- In your browser (localStorage) on each device you use, so the app opens offline.

Your data is protected by Row-Level Security in the database, not just by what the screen shows. By default nobody but you can read your workouts.

3

What Friends Can See

- Anyone signed in can find you only by typing your exact email address or @username. They then see your display name and nothing else until you accept their request.

- Friends (people whose request you accepted) see your display name and username, whether you trained today, and how many workouts you've done this week. They can send you a nudge. They can't see your exercises, sets or weights.
- Close friends (you both agreed, or you chose "Share mine only") can also open your recent workouts: exercise names, sets, reps and weights. You can turn this off any time with Settings -> Share my workouts with friends.
- Your exercise notes are always private. Even close friends never see them.

How to Delete Your Data

Delete your data:

Go to Settings -> Privacy and data -> Delete my data. This permanently removes your profiles, exercises, history, friends details, friendships and nudges from both the cloud and your device. It cannot be undone - export a backup first (Settings -> Backup) if you want to keep a copy.

Remove a friend:

Use the remove option on their card in the Friends tab. It ends the friendship for both of you.

Delete your login / account too:

The 'Delete my data' button clears your data but does not remove the login itself (that needs admin access the app deliberately does not carry in the browser). If you also want your email and account removed, just email the owner and it will be deleted from the dashboard.

Good to Know

- The app only ever uses Supabase's publishable key in the browser, which is safe to share. The security comes from Row-Level Security, not from hiding the key. The secret/admin key is never shipped.
- Because it is a free hobby project, the cloud database may pause after about a week of inactivity and take a few seconds to wake up on your next visit.
